Welcome to Spike Dino's daily post for children learning from home.

St Georges Day

Happy St Georges Day.

Spike remembers the dragons visiting the museum 3 years ago for St Georges Day.

He is going to dress as St George and pretend to catch a dragon. He has found out a little bit about St George and found a link to a short animation of the story. (see below)

St George is the Patron Saint of England - it is his flag that we still use as the English Flag, a white background with a red cross.

The legend of Saint George and the Dragon tells of Saint George (died 303) taming and slaying a dragon that demanded human sacrifices; the saint rescues the princess chosen as the next offering.
