Transport; Bicycle

Spike recently went on a bike ride with one of the Museum team. It was a long ride and he stopped off at several places along the way, all places in Maidstone. Each time they took some photographs of what they could see. It reminded him that there are several bicycles in the Museum's collection, including this one that has somewhere to clip a rifle. That's because it belonged to the Queen's Own Royal West Kent's cycle battalion.

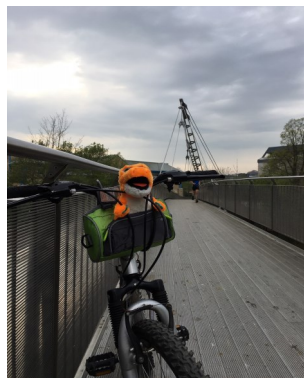

Back to Spike's cycle ride. Here are some pictures of where he visited.
